

Caroline Buisman is an (international) criminal and human rights lawyer at Stapert & Wiersum Advocaten and Associate Counsel for Joshua Arap Sang and Germain Katanga at the ICC and is based in Amsterdam.

She has over a decade (nearly fourteen years) of experience practicing international criminal law at the ICC, ICTY, ICTR and the Special Court of Sierra Leone and has also advised clients on public international law, extradition, FT visa issues and general human rights cases.

Caroline is a member of the Amsterdam and NY Bar and has an LLM from Columbia University, a Masters of Law from Leiden University and a Ph.D. from Brunel University of Law with a specialization in international criminal justice.

She speaks English, Dutch, French and German and is conversant in Swahili.